

TENSION IN GERMANY IS HIGH AS RUMORS OF COUP CONTINUE; REJECT DEMAND

Refuse French Request for Resumption of Inter-Allied Military Control by a Commission in Berlin Without Hindrance.

Berlin Nov. 8.—Germany has rejected the French demand for resumption of inter-allied military control by a commission in Berlin "without hindrance from the Berlin government," it was learned from an authoritative source today.

(According to advices from Paris the demand for re-establishment of allied military control in Germany emanated from the Inter-Allied Council of Ambassadors.)

Nationalist newspapers expressed

the fear that the Germans would not be able to protect the allied army officers.

Tension ran high here today. The air was filled with rumors of an impending coup.

(According to reports circulated in Berlin yesterday the Nationalists and other opponents of the Ebert Stresemann government had set Friday the anniversary of the 1918 revolution as the date for an uprising.)

Heavy forces of police patrol the streets.

The government is attempting to restore the value of money. Official announcement was made that the printing of paper marks would cease on November 15.

The "imminent danger" of the overthrow of the Berlin government by Nationalist bands marching on Berlin from the Bavarian border stands pretty well exploded as a "child born of fear and the feverish excitement of an uneasy national government."

Nevertheless, the Moderate and Socialist parties are issuing one appeal after another to the nation through the press, calling for volunteers to fight the threatened revolution and "save the republic and the constitution."

While the central government under Chancellor Stresemann is being forced more and more toward the nationalistic right, Prussia, with Socialist Minister of the Interior Severing, is encouraging the recruiting of volunteers ostensibly for "auxiliary police," but in reality for a republican army under the control of Prussia and not of the reich.

Along the Thuringian-Bavarian border and responsible for the present nervousness of the Berlin government, whose fears have magnified its numbers, stand a thousand of Captain Ehrhardt's "vikings." Captain Ehrhardt himself, who led his marines to a bloodless occupation of Berlin in the Kapp putsch, and who until recently has been languishing in prison at Danzig under a charge of treason for his activities in the Kapp revolution, laughs at the fears of Berlin.

He said:

"Our one time wonderful nation is going to pieces. All you read of the activity of the Berlin government is that the cabinet confers, that Stresemann receives the party leaders, that the parties hold caucuses and that the party leaders confer among themselves. Our people may die of hunger or go to the dogs. But not one move can be made because the parties must be considered."

"What a spectacle for the gods. What must America and other countries think of such a picture of governmental impotency? It is asserted in anger that America and England do not help us. Who can blame them? Who would want to help such a country? First we must help ourselves. First we must clean house of those elements which make reconstruction impossible."

"Only a national dictatorship can straighten out things in Germany. Political trades unionism in government must end. Political parties and their interests must be ignored. Ruthless action must be taken against profiteers, whether they be industrialists, bankers or others who are sucking the very lifeblood of the German people."

Captain Ehrhardt denied vigorously that the nationalist movement is connected with monarchism. When asked what France might think or do if a national dictatorship comes, Ehrhardt said: "France is doing her worst to Germany. She can not do more to us."

Stinnes, it is said, was not offered a hand in the entire project, but the Chester people asked him to participate. Stinnes replied that none whose capital consists of German paper marks can possibly go into any project that requires real money.

W. G. McAdoo and Children.

William Gibbs McAdoo and his two children—Mary Faith, (left) and Ellen Wilson, granddaughters of ex-President Wilson, were recent callers on President Coolidge. As they left the White House

Mr. Coolidge asked them "to call again." "Oh, we'll be back!" answered Ellen, whose father is a strong possibility for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency next year.

GIRL AND ACCOMPLICE HELD IN CONNECTION WITH AUTO THEFTS

Chicago, Nov. 8.—A running gun fight between detectives and occupants of a stolen touring car believed to have figured in seven holdups early today, ended in the capture of Anna Baron and John Stankis, one of her four companions.

The three others fled on foot from the bullet riddled car, returning the officers fire as they ran. The girl, who has a police record, according to officers, is eighteen, pretty and was fashionably dressed.

Stankis has confessed his part in the holdups, and told them, officers said, that the driver of the alleged bandit car was wounded in the running fight. "The car was blood spattered and seived with bullets when captured. Anna and Stankis were crouched in the rear seat."

It is believed the girl will be taken sometime today before Mrs. Richard C. Tesmer, widow of the wealthy insurance operator slain several months ago by a smiling girl "highwayman."

Anna was taken to the juvenile detention home soon after her arrest. She was arrested three months ago with three youths on a charge of grand larceny. The four were said to have confessed the theft of more than 30 automobiles, but Anna was released after serving but two weeks of her sentence.

Seven holdups reported in rapid succession, with the bandits escaping in a green touring car, answering the description of the automobile in which Anna and her companion were arrested, started the chase today. The robbery victims lost cash and jewelry worth $500.

The chase covered eight blocks, the last five punctuated with pistol fire. The occupants of the fleeing car opened the battle with a fusillade when the detectives ordered them to halt.

New York, Nov. 8.—The possibility of a revival of the entire Stillman divorce case was foreshadowed when James A. Stillman submitted to the appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn the famous "confession letter" alleged to have been written to him by his wife Mrs. Anne U. Stillman. This letter, which mentions "Fred" in several places and speaks of an "Indian baby" was filed as the basis of an appeal from the recent decision by Justice Morechauser. The effect of that decision was a vindication of Mrs. Stillman and of the paternity of her son Guy. The "confession" letter which figured as "Exhibit 22" in the Stillman suit was ruled out by Referee Gleason who heard the evidence.

Mrs. Anne U. Stillman did not write the so-called "confession" letter it was stated today by John F. Brennan, chief counsel for Mrs. Stillman.

"Mrs. Stillman's affidavit, submitted when the case was tried and on file with the supreme court, affirms this letter, like many others in the case, is a forgery," Brennan said.

"The confession" letter was unsigned.

FAMOUS LETTER IS FILED BY STILLMAN

CHARGE RECORDS IN VET. BUREAU ARE CONCEALED

Washington, Nov. 8.—Certain employees of the veterans' bureau, it was openly charged before the senate investigating committee, are placing every obstacle possible in the way of counsel for the committee.

It was charged that these employees are concealing records bearing on the conduct of the bureau and otherwise obstructing the committee's representatives in their search for evidence.

R. C. Routsong, staff statistician, was named as one. It was charged that within the past week he had objected to producing certain records bearing on the $33,000 claim of Matthew O'Brien, San Francisco architect, ordered paid by the general accounting office over the protest of Director Hines for revising plans for the Livermore (Cal.) hospital.

Major Davis G. Arnold, assistant counsel, promised to furnish the committee names of additional employees who had pursued obstructive tactics.

It was read into the record that a $70,000 floor wax and cleaner contract was given by the bureau during the administration of former Director Charles R. Forbes, in an effort to secure the endorsement by Senator Watson of Indiana of the late Charles F. Cramer, former general counsel, who aspired to be appointed assistant secretary of war. Under this contract, according to the bureau of standards, the government paid 87 cents a gallon for a mixture 94 per cent water. Materials for an equally effective formula, the bureau declared, could have been purchased at less than 2 cents a gallon.

Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer, head of the federal board of hospitalization and personal physician to the last President Harding, testified that President Harding last January ordered stopped delivery of veterans' bureau supplies at the Perryville (Md.) depot to Thomson & Kelly, a Boston salvage concern. Forbes continued to release cars in the face of that order, General Sawyer declared. "For this insubordination Colonel Forbes was asked to resign."

Lieutenant Commander Charles R. O'Leary of the navy, who at the time of the Thomson & Kelly deal was in charge of the supply section of the veterans' bureau, and who gave his version of conferences President Harding had with Forbes, himself and Major D. Carmody of the war department, when the president halted the wholesale delivery of supplies to the salvage firm, disclaimed any intent to place responsibility for this deal on the late president.

TAX CONFERENCE NOW ON HORIZON

Columbus, Nov. 8.—John E. McCrehen, secretary of the Ohio Association of Real Estate boards, which was instrumental in submitting the Taft taxation measure to a referendum, issued the following statement: "The people by their vote have indicated a desire for a complete change in the taxation system. They will no longer tolerate the pyramiding of taxes on the homes, the farms, real estate and tangible personal property while the great items of wealth continue untaxed."

Mr. McCrehen added that the Ohio Association of Real Estate boards, the Ohio Building Owners' and Managers' association and other organizations will sponsor a call for a conference in the near future to devise plans to bring about a change to provide for present day needs and equalize the taxation burden.

Miss Sanko declared that Wild said: "If I can't have you, I'll fix you so no one else can have you. I'll put by brand on you and you'll carry it to your grave." Wild denies the charge.

LIQUOR LADEN SCHOONER AGROUND OFF COAST OF N. C.; CREW IS ARRESTED

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 8.—The liquor-laden British schooner Pilot, bound from Nassau to Halifax, which went aground near Bogue Inlet, N. C., Tuesday night, has pounded to pieces in the surf and is a complete wreck, according to reports received here this morning. Much of her cargo, consisting of 31 barrels and over 150 cases of whiskey, was saved by federal prohibition agents, but some of it, however, was lost in the heavy sea that was running.

The master of the ship, who is said to have become bewildered and lost his course in the offshore fog, is under arrest along with five members of his crew of six and will be taken to Newbern. The sixth escaped in the sand dunes, it is said, though one member of the crew expressed fear that the man was drowned.

The scene of the wreck is a lonely and forsaken spot on the bleak Carolina coast.

PROTEST WILL BE FILED BY FRANCE

Berlin, Nov. 8.—France may demand that the former German crown prince be delivered to the allies for trial should young Wilhelm carry out his intentions of returning to Germany. That is the intimation received in Berlin from Paris. According to the information in the hands of the German government, France and the allied governments are expected to file a formal protest at The Hague against the Dutch government, if it permits the former crown prince to leave Holland territory. Attention of the German government will be called to the fact that the former crown prince's name is on the list of extraditable "war criminals," and that the allies will reserve all rights to demand his deliverance should he be allowed to return home.

HANDS OFF POLICY DECREED BY COURT IN WALTON CASE

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 8.—The federal government will not interfere in the impeachment of Governor J. C. Walton.

The "hands off" policy was decreed by Federal Judge John H. Cottenal, who denied the deposed governor's prayer for an injunction restraining the senatorial court from proceeding with the impeachment trial.

While the federal tribunal was hearing Walton's plea, the senate court of impeachment was receiving his counsel's formal answer to the allegations contained in the 20 articles of impeachment, and the house of representatives' principal investigating committee was absorbing evidence to the effect that last February Walton had actually taken the oath of the Ku Klux Klan. He is said to have taken the oath while in his office in the governor's suite at the state capitol.

Through his attorneys the deposed governor denied each of the charges. The answer embraced hundreds of typewritten sheets and at the conclusion of the reading of the answer to the fifth article the court decided to have the whole document printed.

In the federal court hearing at Lawton, Judge Cottenal refused to intervene because of lack of jurisdiction.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 8.—The aloof silence maintained by the Oklahoma Ku Klux Klan since the lifting of martial law, was broken today when N. C. Jewett, wizard of the organization in this state, declared emphatically that "Jack Walton cannot break the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma or any other state."

"The Ku Klux Klan is not the issue in this state," Jewett told International News Service, in denying Governor Walton's assertion that the Klan is backing a conspiracy to cause his removal from office.

"Walton is to be tried for malfeasance in office. That's all there is to that. The trial is a case between the state of Oklahoma and Walton."

Stokes, the plaintiff in the divorce suit, was criminally insane and that he had conducted a case that was an outrage on justice and the worst in the history of an American court. He pictured Stokes as a man who would strip his wife before the world. Mr. Untermyer's address came after the closing of testimony. Mr. Max D. Steur, counsel for the plaintiff, will sum up this afternoon, and it is expected that the case will be in the hands of the jury by nightfall.

KELLOG FIRST MAN FROM WEST APPOINTED AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN.

C. Bascom Slemph, secretary to the President, has disclosed an interesting sidelight on Mr. Coolidge's working methods. When the President was considering the appointment of a successor to Colonel George Harvey to represent the United States at the Court of St. James's he asked Mr. Slemph to give him a list of former Ambassadors to Great Britain. This list, containing some of the most illustrious names in American history, discloses that former Senator Frank Kellogg, who has just been named as the next Ambassador to Great Britain, will be the first man from the "wild and woolly West" to hold the post. Former Ambassador John W. Davis, of West Virginia, was from the "far" West compared with the other American Ambassadors to Britain.

In point of Ambassadors to the Court of St. James New York leads the list with nine. Massachusetts and Pennsylvania are tied for second place with six each and Virginia and Maryland for third place with three each. New Jersey, to which Colonel Harvey is assigned, actually has only one Ambassador to Great Britain to its credit. Although Frederick T. Frelichghysen, of New Jersey, was appointed Ambassador to Great Britain by President Grant, he declined. The list also contains the names of our men who later became President—James Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Martin Van Buren and James Buchanan.

EUROPE NOT JUSTIFIED IN ASKING U. S. AID.

If European states need the help of America, for which they continually clamor, to stabilize their Governments financially and politically, why should we not demand as a condition that Americans be placed in control of such European Governments during the stabilizing procession that proper effect might be attained by orderly administration of American peace policies? It is neither charity nor wisdom for America to burden her own people with excessive taxes to waste on European Governments that do not show the mental attitude to use same to effectuate real peace.

With ibred racial hatred and jealousy, greed, war training and love of conquest, how could further American help to Europe succeed in its true purpose if placed in the hands and under the control of designing European politicians?

Let America adhere to its wise policy of the past to help stabilize only where we are placed in the position of controlling the policies of stabilization.

As a matter of fact there is an immense amount of private wealth in Europe, and European statesmen are quite as intelligent as Americans.

When Europeans are morally and morally willing to settle their controversies in a spirit of justice and fraternity, it is probable that peace will reign in their midst and prosperity will return to them without the constant begging for America's help, which means in reality an alms for their purposes.

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

THE PASSING OF BEAUTY
Trees are turning red and gold,
Now the year is growing old,
But the leaves are fluttering down
To the gutters of the town;
And the beauty of it all
Tells us plainly it is fall.
It is fall and summer's gone,
Winter's swiftly coming on.

Roses pink and roses white
Make a very lovely sight,
But I cannot stay the year,
When I see them on a bier.
Tinged with sadness every bloom
Lighting up the silent room.
For the petals, one by one,
Whisper this: Your friend has gone.

Minced Ham on Toast: Put cooked, left-over ham through your food chopper, then measure it. To each cupful add the yolk of one hard-boiled egg mashed. Season the mixture with salt and pepper to taste, and add a little butter. Turn all into a hot frying pan and let cook till hot through, stirring constantly. Then heap the hot hash on buttered slices of toast and serve at once.

Potato Cakes with Eggs: Bake large potatoes till very tender, then peel and mash well. Measure, and to each cupful allow the yolks of one egg cooked till mealy and then mashed and mixed with one-half cup of sweet milk. Add salt to season, and form the mixture into small, flat cakes with the hands. Place these cakes on greased baking pans and brown for 15 minutes in a medium oven. Serve hot. Lentil Soup: wash one cupful (one-half pound) of lentils, then soak them overnight in cold water to cover well. In the morning drain and put them into a saucepan with six cups of water, bring to the boiling point, and skim well. Now add the following ingredients, three stalks of diced celery, one chopped onion, one chopped carrot, one chopped turnip, a small piece of bay leaf, one teaspoon of whole peppers, one stale crust of bread finely ground, one teaspoon of salt and a sprig or two of parsley.

Let this mixture simmer for one and one-half hours, then strain it through a wire-meshed sieve, rubbing through as much of the chopped vegetables as possible. Set this aside while you make the following mixture: Melt two tablespoons of butter in a large saucepan, rub into it one heaping tablespoon of flour, add one cup of milk and let simmer for four minutes, stirring constantly. Now add the soup to this thickening, and season to taste with salt and pepper.

When you serve it, put a little cream or rich top-milk into each individual soup plate, then pour the hot soup on top of it using not more than one-half cup of the cream for each plate. Note: In boiling the soup, before combining it with the thickening, it may be necessary to add a little hot water from time to time as the liquid evaporates. Keep it the consistency of top-milk.

Carrots a la Pompadour: Butter a baking dish and put in the bottom two cups of cooked, sliced carrots. Add a layer of two cups of cooked, sliced potatoes. Then pour over all the following sauce: Melt two heaping

Today's Talk

START AFRESH

Every race is from scratch. That is, from an equal footing. The loser must take his chance for success another time.

But in time that loser will be the winner. For it is the good sport who smiles and says he will take that other chance, until he wins.

Each day we start another race, another game, another life. But even with this assurance, many of us carry over the records of our former defeats and discouragements into the new day.

What a world of men and women this would be if we could all start each day!

It isn't an easy thing to obliterate the paths of our thoughts, the scars of our mistakes and blunders but it is entirely possible for us to keep them as reminders to walk straight and keep our eyes open, face front, look ahead and start afresh as though life had just been unfolded anew for us.

Keep starting afresh. Over and over again start afresh. And some day life will take upon itself freshness and beauty and strength. And everything you do will reflect the occasions of your re-birth.

We are too much troubled about the little ailments and pains of our daily life. We think of them as some kind of necessary beings with which we must consort in greater or less degree. But, as a matter of fact, we should pass them by, put freshness into our imagination and will our bodily servants to clean house—to start afresh.

It is never too late to mend, to start afresh.

Styles BY LENORE

The new neckline is a variable feature. There is no longer one prescribed line, like the bateau neck.

This season the neckline may depend upon your own taste or that of your dressmaker.

An always becoming neckline is the "V" shape, and the low-cut oval is another. Both are frequently seen in evening dresses, which by the way are a little more elaborate this year than they have been in recent seasons.

Corded draping, with a graceful cascading drape from the hip and a silver garniture, give richness to a gown of sapphire blue velvet, adapted from a Molyneux model.

When this gown goes out in the evening, it may wear the rose velvet wrap also shown in the sketch. It is collared with Kolinsky.

PUBLISH TEXT OF NOTES TO BERLIN

Paris, Nov. 8.—The Interallied Council of Ambassadors today published the text of the notes sent to Berlin October 3, and Nov. 3 demanding reestablishment of allied military control over all Germany.

The ambassadorial council expressed fear that the gravest consequences would follow if Germany refused to permit such control.

The second note outlined possible allied action if Germany returned a negative reply.

An answer is demanded from Berlin by November 10.

So far no communication on the subject has been received from Germany.

Joe Montana, Jr.

The boy's attorney will fight for his life on the assertion that the police had no search warrant when they entered his home and that the killing, therefore, was justifiable.

"DON'T GET UP NIGHTS ANYMORE"

No one need suffer the pain and annoyance of bladder trouble getting up many times each night. C. F. Melcher, Vevay, Ind., manufacturer, says, "Before I took Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) I had to get up two to four times every hour at night and was bothered nearly as much in daytime. It got so bad I could not go any place to visit or work, for I had no control of my bladder. I am all right now and have no trouble at all." Sufferers from bladder trouble will be surprised at the impurities passed after a few doses of Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula). It acts on the kidneys and bladder similarly as do Epsom Salts on the bowels. Try a few doses for frequent desire at night, scalding, scanty or high-colored urine. Lithiated Buchu tablets (Keller formula) is not a cheap medicine. They cost 25¢ each and contain several drugs which are useful for relief of this trouble. At drug stores everywhere, or write The Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, O. They are for sale in this city by Sayre and Hemphill.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale.

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MR. BUTTERFLY'S JOURNEY

Mr. Monarch Butterfly gazed up at the smiling, happy face of Mr. Sun. Then he looked down at the milkweed plant upon which he was perched.

"I'll have to leave you," he said to the milkweed plant, "but you will come along, too," he added, as once more he looked at Mr. Sun.

Mr. Sun blinked as much as to say that that was right.

What a life his had been, the Monarch thought to himself. Did people ever realize what a thrilling, exciting, sweet life a butterfly could have? He went back in his little butterfly mind over the summer.

He hadn't remembered when he had been but a little egg on one of these milkweed plants. Nor did he remember when he had hatched out into a tiny black and white caterpillar. But he had been told that he had been a dear little baby caterpillar, and then life had begun in earnest for him.

My! He shivered as he thought of it now—that day when he had been almost trampled upon three times! What a day that had been.

Then he had changed into a beautiful Chrysalis, wearing a gorgeous green suit with gold decorations.

And ever since he had left off that suit for his present one he had decided he would not change again.

"If I did," he said to himself, "it would upset all the Rules of Butterfly Air." He spoke of it as Butterfly Air. Instead of Butterfly Land, as he spent so much time in the air.

"Besides," he had decided, "everyone knows me as I am now. At least I hope they know the Monarch! I hope when they see a handsome butterfly of brown with smart black lines and white-spotted black wing edges and head decorations that it is a Monarch they are beholding."

"But if they don't know that, I'd like to tell them a secret. We're always in the neighborhood of the milkweed plants from the time we're babies until we're quite grown-up. And if I could put up Butterfly signs to direct people to our homes I'd print on the signs:

"To the Milkweed Plants in the Country—Homes of the Famous Monarch Butterflies."

Lately he had been very glad that butterflies could not put up signs telling people where their homes were, for he had had several narrow escapes from butterfly nets.

"And now I'm going on my journey," he said, "but before I go I shall pay a farewell call on my old friend Sir Clouded Sulphur Butterfly."

"I haven't left anything behind," he said, "because I never take anything with me. I don't need a tooth-brush and I don't need a wash-rag. All I need is myself."

"And that I always have." Perhaps I should not speak of myself in such a fashion, but when a butterfly is about to take a great long journey he cannot think of such little trifles.

"Ah, what a time I'll have. And Mr. Sun will go with me. For Mr. Sun and I are the best of friends."

"But of course I must say a good-bye to Sir Clouded Sulphur Butterfly. That I must do, and then I will be all ready to start."

"Heigh-ho," he said.

"I do believe," he added after a moment, "that I will sing a song about Mr. Sun."

"Oh," said Mr. Sun, "I will be honored if you sing a song about me. I will be truly flattered and pleased."

"You deserve all the flattery and pleasure you get," smiled the Monarch. "I will begin my song at once, before I pay my call."

"Do," said Mr. Sun.

This was the Monarch's song:

"The Sun is high and mighty, And yet he's not a snob; For he doesn't turn his face aside, But will smile at any old mob."

"Oh, that is a fine song," said Mr. Sun after the Monarch had finished. "I am truly delighted."

"You deserve it, you deserve it," said the Monarch, as he started off for the last call he was to make before he took his journey south for the winter months.

"Thank you, thank you," called Mr. Sun after him. "I cannot begin to tell you how pleased I am. But perhaps I'll be able to show you in my sunny fashion."

YOUNG GIRLHOOD IS WRITTEN IN PRETTY JUNIOR HATS

ONE is apt to run across a young-ish grandmother trying on hats designed for the debutante these days. For junior styles in millinery follow the modes for grownups to some degree. This is more apparent in materials than in trimmings, and in the small, close-fitting shapes the difference in styles, for different ages, seems sometimes to be only a difference in head size.

In the group of young girls' hats shown here, velvet, embroideries, sectional crowns and shapes all have their prototypes in the autumn styles for grown people. But these styles are skillfully modified to make this dressy headwear for juniors in keeping with their years. A velvet picture hat at the top is faced with taffeta and edged with a taffeta-lined fringe in a bright color. It adopts a sash of wide, soft ribbon for trimming and might be worn by girls from thirteen to seventeen at least.

The last hat in the group, of velvet with upturned brim, has a youthful crown in which an embroidered disk supplies the center, with the scant side crown shirred and joined to it. Shirred velvet covers the brim, but the shirring is simple and not full. A floral flower made of velvet, having its petals finished with stitches, is set in stems indicated in the same way, and velvet leaves.

FIFTY FOUR GIVEN EXAMINATIONS AT CLINIC IN XENIA

Fifty-four patients were examined at the two-day tuberculosis clinic conducted by the State Department of Health, at the Court House, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Of the twenty-six cases examined Tuesday, four were found positive for tuberculosis, six were suspected cases and sixteen negative. The chest diagnosticians examined 29 cases Wednesday, and found of that number three positive cases of the disease, five suspected and 21 negative.

Of the twenty-six cases examined at the tuberculosis clinic by physicians of the State Department of Health, at the Court House Tuesday, four were found positive for cases and sixteen negative.

Twenty-five cases were examined by the diagnosticians at the clinic, Wednesday, Dr. W. C. Breidenbach, superintendent of the Stillwater Sanitarium, at Dayton, and Dr. C. F. Anderson, superintendent of the Mount Vernon Sanitarium, were the chief diagnosticians, assisted by Miss Anna M. Doyle of the State Department of Health and city nurses. Members of the Greene County Medical Society witnessed clinic Tuesday, and brought their patients from all over the county for examination.

Dr. J. A. Frank, Chief of the Bureau of Tuberculosis, of the State Department of Health, outlined the program of the clinics as they have been held throughout the state, before the members of the Greene County Medical Society, at the Court House, Tuesday night. He emphasized the value of a regular physical examination.

Dr. W. C. Breidenbach also addressed the medical society, showing a series of slides in which Pneumothorax was used. He also spoke on the diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis.

If those afflicted with the disease can be kept under the supervision of a family physician and the necessary aid given to them as a whole, further development may be avoided, according to physicians. In some cases sanatorium treatment may be necessary.

Miss Anna M. Doyle, of the State Department of Health, who made arrangements for the clinic, assisted by local charitable organizations and physicians, will leave Friday for Columbus.

Assisting in the work of the clinic were three High School pupils, the Misses Helen Fisher, Dorothy Hickman, and Thelma Routzong, who made out the report of the physicians.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

PETER W. COLLINS WILL SPEAK UNDER AUSPICES OF K. OF C.

The 1922-23 Knights of Columbus campaign against extreme radicalism and for constructive thought and service will be brought home to the citizens of Xenia and Greene County when Peter W. Collins, well-known industrial expert and lecturer on sociological and economic subjects will deliver his address "What America Means to Us," in the Jean B. Elwell Auditorium of the new Central High School building next Monday under the auspices of Xenia Council, No. 1801, Knights of Columbus.

Mr. Collins is acknowledged to be one of the best equipped authorities on industrial problems. He has for over 25 years given his best effort for harmonious and right relations between labor and capital. Serving as industrial expert with the Federal Government during the war and as an active labor executive for many years before the war, he came in contact with every phase of the sociological-economic problems. He holds the distinction of being the first and only expert on Socialism, Bolshevism and I. W. W. to be called before any legislative or judicial tribunal and acted as such in the famous New York investigation testifying for three full days.

As director general of K. of C. reconstruction and employment work after the war, Mr. Collins had charge of the functioning of the K. of C. system that placed 300,000 former service men back in civilian employment without a cent of cost to either employer or employees—constituting what Secretary of Labor James J. Davis characterizes as the most amazing feat in the history of modern employment management.

Mr. Collins' lecture will be under the auspices of Xenia Council, which has issued a general invitation to the public to hear him.

FRIENDS NOTICED IMPROVEMENT

Wonderful Results from Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable
Compound

Beloit, Wis.—"My female trouble was brought on by overwork. I had worked in stores and had to do heavier work than my strength could stand, and had to be on my feet most of the time. Finally I had to give up this work entirely and stay at home. Doctor's medicine did not give me much relief, and my mother wanted me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took a couple of bottles of it and thought it did not help me as much as it should, so I gave it up to try something else. Nothing I took helped me much, so I finally decided to give the Vegetable Compound another trial and to take enough of it to make sure it would help me. I have taken it over a year now and it has brought wonderful results. I have gained from 98 to 110 pounds and am keeping house now. My friends all notice the change in my health. I will be glad to answer all letters that women write to me about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. W. G. MONSON, 1515 Park Ave., Beloit, Wis.

Mrs. Monson is willing to write to any woman suffering from such troubles.

Not a drop of blood flowing in the lithe and well-proportioned body of little Mary June Beard, 2-year-old daughter of Policeman and Mrs. W. M. Beard, of Los Angeles, Cal., comes from acrobatic ancestry. "Milk and plenty of it," turned the trick," declared her father, as he swung June around him, holding her feet between his fingers. When she had completed three quarters of the circle at a point just above her daddy's head, she stood erect, balanced perfectly. She is shown here in her favorite trick of jumping off her father's home into his arms.

RIDDLE RESIGNS MIDDLETOWN JOB

Kenyon Riddle, city manager of Middletown, and Xenia's first city manager, resigned as manager of Middletown Wednesday, effective December 15.

Riddle will associate himself with his twin brother, Karl Riddle, city manager of West Palm Beach, Fla., in conducting an engineering and contracting company in Florida and in the colonization of a 100,000 acre tract.

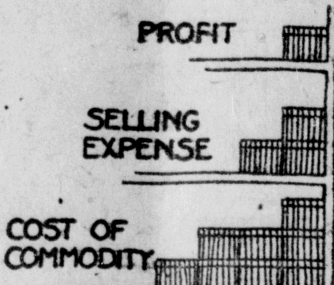

Riddle came here as Xenia's first city manager January 1, 1918, from Kansas, where he had been active in the promotion of the commission-manager plan of municipal government. He was a charter member of the City Manager's Association and considered an authority on the operation of that type of government as a pioneer in the field.

Riddle was here until March, 1921 when he resigned to become city manager of Middletown, a position he has since held. He said a telegram offering the position in Florida was received several days ago but that he withheld knowledge of his intended resignation until after the election.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

NO PROFIT UNTIL LAST BOX IS SOLD

QUICK TURNOVER AND PROFIT DEPEND ON PRICE

The last box of goods is the merchants' profit. Speed of turnover is therefore very important.

Consider the problem of the dealer in hosiery. Assume that he buys a dozen boxes of hosiery at $10 a box, to sell at $15, with a selling expense of $45 for the lot.

As is shown in the illustration, he will have to sell eight boxes to get his original $120, which he paid for the hosiery. He has to sell three more to make his expenses of $45. The last box will give him a profit of $15 on the deal. However, he has to sell this last box before he makes anything.

Consequently, he is interested in moving the goods quickly, in other words he wants a quick turnover. If it takes a long time to sell that last box, perhaps it would be more profitable to sell the whole bunch at $14 a box, and they only make a profit of $8.

It would certainly be more profitable to make six $3 profits in the same time that it would take to make one $15 profit. This means the merchant must take the speed with which a product will sell into consideration when making prices.

MINSTREL SHOW IS GIVEN BY KIWANIS

Rival golf teams of the Xenia Kiwanis Club met again at the regular meeting of the Club at the Elks' Lodge Wednesday evening, in what was probably the windup of the golf season, so far as club contests are concerned.

Members of the team captained by T. H. Zell were entertained with a minstrel show, staged by members of the opposing team, in which Elbert I. Babb and James D. Adair, blackface artists, assumed roles of end men, with D. S. Tallaferro as interlocutor. An orchestra composed of R. E. Dunkel, E. S. Davidson, S. M. McKay, T. C. Long, C. A. Bone and J. M. Davidson, entertained the club with two selections early in the program, and was supplemented later by a saxophone solo by E. S. Davidson, accompanied at the piano by R. E. Dunkel.

Dr. A. M. Patterson read what purported to be a letter from a member of the club to a friend in which the described humorously the two golf contests held by the Kiwanis teams. Parodies on popular songs aimed at individuals of the club were sung by several of the entertainers.

"The sweetest story ever told"

THE sweetest story ever told music lovers is the story of the Brunswick Method of Reproduction. For it is the story of true music.

The method of reproduction

The Brunswick Method of Reproduction is the right application of fundamental musical and acoustical laws. It consists of two simple, yet exclusive, Brunswick features now widely known—the Ultona and the Tone Amplifier. Together they operate as a unit.

The ULTONA—a scientific Brunswick creation—simple in structure and it plays all records infinitely better.

With but a slight turn of the hand it presents the proper needle and diaphragm to any make record.

Brunswick
PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS

The TONE AMPLIFIER solves an old problem in acoustics. It is oval in shape and moulded of rare holly wood. Like the sounding board of a fine piano it is built entirely of wood. It is absolutely free from metal.

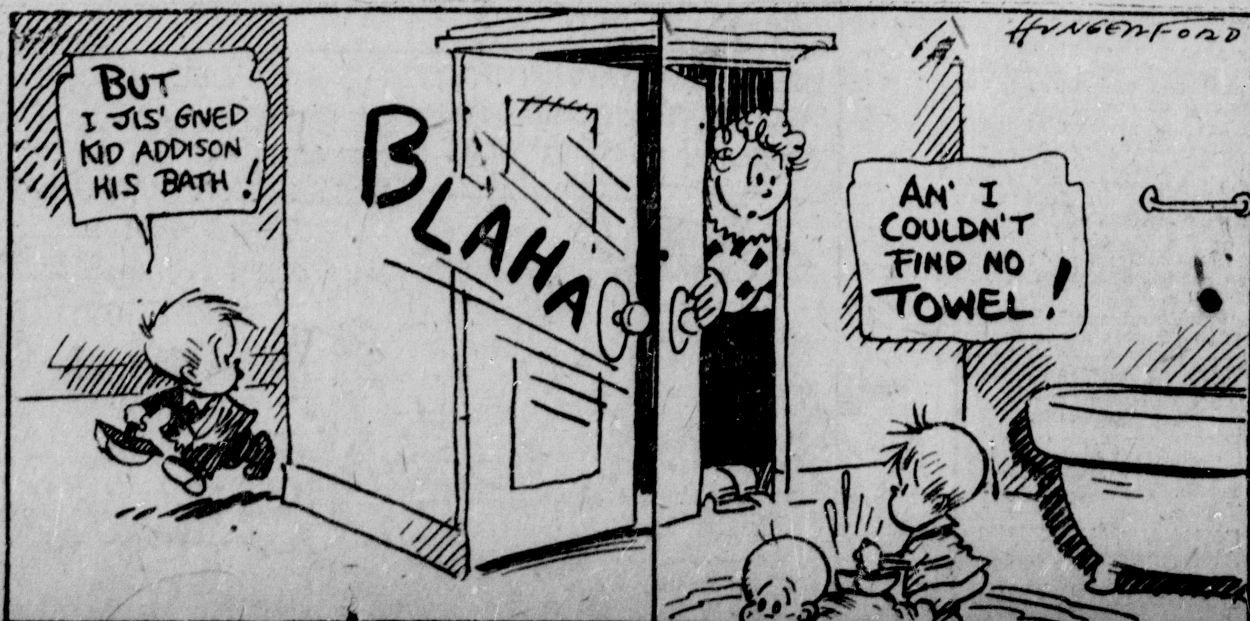

By this method of projecting sound, tone waves are unrestricted and allowed to unfold into full rounded tones that are rich, mellow and, above all, natural.

You buy only one phonograph and you cannot afford to make a mistake. It costs you nothing to be sure. Come in and find out for yourself.

BEING PRIMED FOR GREENFIELD HIGH

Coach "Puss" Burgner, is pointing his Central High football team for the contest with Greenfield McClain High at Greenfield Friday afternoon.

Greenfield and Xenia both fell out of the same boat this year, both losing crack grid combinations through the operation of graduation. Neither has been successful this fall, although McClain boasts of one victory in the South Central Ohio League besides a tie contest and three defeats.

Fans believe the blue and white performers pastime in the noble fashion they did against Springfield, that they can beat Greenfield. Players themselves believe that the travel jinx has had a lot to do with the failure of the team on foreign fields this season. They say the team does not show the fight and dash away from home that characterizes battles in their own ballfield.

Bugs believe the combination used against Greenville last week was the cream of arrangements, and the same combination will probably be sent against the hill top crowd Friday.

This, it was held, makes him a professional.

Grid-Dust

By Ray Higgins

Considerable interest is being manifested in these parts in the outcome of the Wilmington-Steele football game at Dayton Saturday afternoon.

Steele has managed to set up a halo of perfect football around itself by bringing football teams several thousand miles to Dayton and defeating them. Bugs want to see what the Steele eleven can do against a real, dyed-in-the-world southern Ohio old-fashioned football team.

Unfortunately Wilmington High and Wilmington followers are certain the Quakers will whip Steele Saturday. The team that defeats Steele will have to have confidence but reports emanating from the Clinton County seat indicate that the team is assuming a "cocky" attitude. Unless this attitude is unlearned before Saturday Steele is going to have an easier time than it really should have.

Steele High has a good football team and one that plays almost perfect football. Fumbles and misplays are infrequent from the Ben coached athletes. There is a big reserve squad to replace pass timers who did not follow instructions. If they beat Wilmington, which is likely, they will do by out-smarting Coach Black's boys.

Steele always has a bag of tricks up its collective sleeve. If Wilmington's heavy line plays real football, the Dayton team will not be able to gain on straight football. But Steele will use trick formations that will throw the heavy Wilmington forward wall into disorder.

Wilmington will out-weight Steele from 15 to 20 pounds to the man, but Steele is drilled in the end-running and passing game to defeat heavy teams. Pine Bluff, Arkansas, also boasted a heavy line and a smart grid club. Steele won that game handily by playing more perfect football, holding to the ball and taking advantage of every opportunity. In our opinion Wilmington, in spite of the possession of much latent talent, cannot win from Steele—at least on the Steele grid-iron.

Health Hints
by the Father of Physical Culture

Activity is the law of life, and this is no less true in age than in youth, though there are some modifications to be made in the manner of exercise. Just so soon as one settles down to "be old," or in other words, to stagnate mentally or physically, just so soon do his powers atrophy and decline and it does not matter whether the process starts in at the age of forty or eighty. The only way to retain youth up to the last is to maintain the healthful conditions and activities of youth.

We should remember that old age is a matter of physical condition rather than of years.

Speaking briefly, age means a loss of elasticity, especially in the cartilages and in the walls of the blood vessels. A great deal is said about the hardening of the arteries, but this is a matter affecting the health and nutrition of the body. Since we know that circulation depends upon this elasticity of the blood vessels, next to the essential pumping of the heart, the importance of keeping the arteries in good condition, and for the sake of this, the general health, will be obvious.

Nearly all ordinary exercises suitable for all-around development can be practiced with benefit by those who are passing through their advanced years, except that in some cases they would better be performed more slowly.

Owing to the gradual loss of elasticity in the arteries, it is not wise for those who are very old to attempt violent or very rapid exercises. As a rule, those which call for less speed or activity but more endurance are best suited. The requirements of children are just the opposite, for they can profit by lively games with only moderate demands upon their endurance. There are many cases in which old men have shown themselves capable of better endurance records in old age than in youth, outside of the more strenuous pastimes.

Walking is an ideal exercise for the old. The man of middle age may find himself rather awkward and stiff, but if he will take up faithful and persistent physical training he will find that all of this will disappear in a few months and he will again enjoy the activity and strength of his early manhood.

DEPUTY REGISTRARS OF AUTOMOBILES NAMED BY BROWN

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

USUAL RELATION

BUT IF RELATION IS REVERSED—

A STOCK DIVIDEND IS JUSTIFIED

A stock dividend is not necessarily an instrument of speculation. There are times when it is justifiable.

When should a company declare a stock dividend? It doesn't ever have to, but the chances are that it would be advisable if the surplus was out of proportion to the capital stock, and net earnings were large enough to cover a reasonable dividend on the new stock.

The real capital of a company is the sum of the capital stock and the surplus. However, the surplus is primarily to assure dividends in poor times. It is a shock absorber.

If the company can declare a stock dividend and still have a sizable surplus account left, it is certainly justified in doing it, especially if earnings warrant a large cash dividend.

A LETTER Chapter 8

The guide Jim came back from the post office with his pack basket loaded with supplies.

"There's a couple of letters down in the bottom of the pack," he advised as Brown helped him unload. "And a blue one that I speak's rather important," he went on, wrinkling his weather-beaten brow to hide the knowing smile that played around the corners of his grey eyes. "I put 'er here, for safe keeping," he remarked as he pulled forth a long blue envelope from an inner pocket of his hunting coat.

Lee jammed the blue envelope into his own pocket, and leaned over the pack in an effort to hide the red flood which rushed over his face. He somehow resented the blue envelope's intrusion.

"Catch any fish for dinner?" Jim queried, as he hung up the empty pack basket on a pair of antlers.

"Not yet," Brown answered absently, and a far-away look crept into his blue eyes.

The guide turned looked questioningly at him. He smiled again as he thought of the blue envelope with its distinctly feminine hand writing, which he believed to be the cause of that far-away look in Lee's eyes. Jim could not know that the envelope lay forgotten in Lee Brown's pocket and that his thoughts were rushing back to the memory of a certain khaki-clad figure, and trying to recall the tingling sensation which he had experienced when a firm, strong hand gripped his fingers for one brief, exquisite moment in the forest.

Brown walked mustily toward the door of the cabin. As he reached in his pocket for a cigarette, his fingers encountered the forgotten envelope. Striding out on the porch he threw himself into a chair and tore open the seal.

At the sight of the handwriting something of a half-deadened thrill stirred and pricked again at his senses, like a firm pressure upon a too newly healed wound. Then he read the letter and a cloud of doubt spread over his thoughts and muddled his senses. Something about the tone of the letter made it seem difficult for him to breathe freely. He re-read parts of it, trying to clarify his impressions.

"Brownie, old dear, the letter greeted. 'Are you sure you are quite contented? If I should find I wanted you again suddenly you'd come to me, wouldn't you? You were so funny and peevish—'

He put the letter down and turned its contents over and over in his mind. "If I should find I wanted you again!"—he repeated the words slowly. He was torn between wishing that the letter had not come, and the realization that he had been hoping for it. Also he knew that if Cynthia should want him again, he would probably go to her. Just her familiar handwriting awoke his longing for her. He fingered the letter and raised it to his lips. The faint aroma of Cynthia's favorite perfume brought her presence intimately before him. He could see again the charming smile of her alluring rose-bud lips, and feel the tantalizing touch of her playful fingers. Once again her fascinating personality closed in around his heart. The cruel wounds, which her selfish vanity had inflicted so unmercifully upon him, faded into a tingling conscious thrill, and he longed to go to her at once. He felt miserably lonely without her.

He picked up the letter and read it again slowly. But she had said—"If I should find I wanted you again." He thought: "If—that's different, I'd be a fool to go now—and perhaps spoil everything." He stood up and pressed the letter again to his lips. "No!" I'll wait a few days. It will be worth it when she really sends for me," he mused, then put the letter in a pocket against his heart and strode joyfully back through the cabin door.

"How about going out and catching that fish for dinner?" he demanded, giving the guide a friendly slap on the shoulder.

"Sure! I'm with you," Jim returned readily. "There's nothing like catching 'em fresh, as you want 'em," Lee declared with a subtle grin on his happy face. "A trout is like a woman; it's more sport to catch 'em when they're jumping," he laughed knowingly.

TENSION IN GERMANY IS HIGH AS RUMORS OF COUP CONTINUE: REJECT DEMAND

Refuse French Request for Resumption of Inter-Allied Military Control by a Commission in Berlin Without Hindrance.

Berlin, Nov. 8.—Germany has rejected the French demand for resumption of inter-allied military control by a commission in Berlin "without hindrance from the Berlin government," it was learned from an authoritative source today.

(According to advices from Paris the demand for re-establishment of allied military control in Germany emanated from the Inter-Allied Council of Ambassadors.)

Nationalist newspapers expressed

the fear that the Germans would not be able to protect the allied army officers.

Tension ran high here today. The air was filled with rumors of an impending coup.

(According to reports circulated in Berlin yesterday the Nationalists and other opponents of the Ebert Stresemann government had set Friday the anniversary of the 1918 revolution as the date for an uprising.)

Heavy forces of police patrol the streets.

The government is attempting to restore the value of money. Official announcement was made that the printing of paper marks would cease on November 15.

The "imminent danger" of the overthrow of the Berlin government by Nationalist bands marching on Berlin from the Bavarian border stands pretty well exploded as a "child born of fear and the feverish excitement of an uneasy national government."

Nevertheless, the Moderate and Socialist parties are issuing one appeal after another to the nation through the press, calling for volunteers to fight the threatened revolution and "save the republic and the constitution."

While the central government under Chancellor Stresemann is being forced more and more toward the nationalistic right, Prussia, with Socialist Minister of the Interior Severing, is encouraging the recruiting of volunteers ostensibly for "auxiliary police," but in reality for a republican army under the control of Prussia and not of the reich.

Along the Thuringian-Bavarian border and responsible for the present nervousness of the Berlin government, whose fears have magnified its numbers, stand a thousand of Captain Ehrhardt's "vikings." Captain Ehrhardt himself, who led his marines to a bloodless occupation of Berlin in the Kapp putch, and who until recently has been languishing in prison at Danzig under a charge of treason for his activities in the Kapp revolution, laughs at the fears of Berlin.

He said: "Our one time wonderful nation is going to pieces. All you read of the activity of the Berlin government is that the cabinet confers, that Stresemann receives the party leaders, that the parties hold caucuses and that the party leaders confer among themselves. Our people may die of hunger or go to the dogs. But not one move can be made because the parties must be considered."

"What a spectacle for the gods. What must America and other countries think of such a picture of governmental impotency? It is asserted in anger that America and England do not help us. Who can blame them? Who would want to help such a country? First we must help ourselves. First we must clean house of those elements which make reconstruction impossible."

"Only a national dictatorship can straighten out things in Germany. Political trades unionism in government must end. Political parties and their interests must be ignored. Ruthless action must be taken against profiteers, whether they be industrialists, bankers or others who are sucking the very lifeblood of the German people."

Captain Ehrhardt denied vigorously that the Nationalist movement is connected with monarchism. When asked what France might think or do if a national dictatorship comes, Ehrhardt said: "France is doing her worst to Germany. She can not do more to us."

GIRL AND ACCOMPLICE HELD IN CONNECTION WITH AUTO THEFTS

Chicago, Nov. 8.—A running gun fight between detectives and occupants of a stolen touring car believed to have figured in seven holdups early today, ended in the capture of Anna Baron and John Stankis, one of her four companions.

The three others fled on foot from the bullet riddled car, returning the officers fire as they ran. The girl, who has a police record, according to officers, is eighteen, pretty and was fashionably dressed.

Stankis has confessed his part in the holdups, and told them, officers said, that the driver of the alleged bandit car was wounded in the running fight. The car was blood spattered and seived with bullets when captured. Anna and Stankis were crouched in the rear seat.

It is believed the girl will be taken sometime today before Mrs. Richard C. Tesmer, widow of the wealthy insurance operator slain several months ago by a smiling girl "highwayman."

Anna was taken to the juvenile detention home soon after her arrest. She was arrested three months ago with three youths on a charge of grand larceny. The four were said to have confessed the theft of more than 30 automobiles, but Anna was released after serving two weeks of her sentence.

Seven holdup reported in rapid succession, with the bandits escaping in a green touring car, answering the description of the automobile in which Anna and her companion were arrested started the chase today.

The robbery victims lost cash and jewelry worth $500.

The chase covered eight blocks, the last five punctuated with pistol fire. The occupants of the fleeing car opened the battle with a fusillade when the detectives ordered them to halt.

CHARGE RECORDS IN VET. BUREAU ARE CONCEALED

Washington, Nov. 8.—Certain employees of the veterans' bureau, it was openly charged before the senate investigating committee, are placing every obstacle possible in the way of counsel for the committee.

It was charged that these employees are concealing records bearing on the conduct of the bureau and otherwise obstructing the committee's representatives in their search for evidence.

R. C. Routsong, staff statistician, was named as one. It was charged that within the past week he had objected to producing certain records bearing on the $33,000 claim of Matthew O'Brien, San Francisco architect, ordered paid by the general accounting office over the protest of Director Hines for revising plans for the Livermore (Cal.) hospital.

Major Davis G. Arnold, assistant counsel, promised to furnish the committee names of additional employees who had pursued obstructive tactics.

It was read into the record that a $70,000 floor wax and cleaner contract was given by the bureau during the administration of former Director Charles R. Forbes, in an effort to secure the endorsement by Senator Watson of Indiana of the late Charles F. Cramer, former general counsel, who aspired to be appointed assistant secretary of war. Under this contract, according to the bureau's standards, the government paid 87 cents a gallon for a mixture 94 per cent water. Materials for an equally effective formula, the bureau declared, could have been purchased at less than 2 cents a gallon.

Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer, head of the federal board of hospitalization and personal physician to the last President Harding, testified that President Harding last January ordered stopped delivery of veterans' bureau supplies at the Perryville (Md.) depot to Thomson & Kelly, a Boston salvage concern. Forbes continued to release cars in the face of that order, General Sawyer declared. "For this insubordination Colonel Forbes was asked to resign."

Lieutenant Commander Charles R. O'Leary of the navy, who at the time of the Thomson & Kelly deal was in charge of the supply section of the veterans' bureau, and who gave his version of conferences President Harding had with Forbes, himself and Major D. Carmody of the war department, when the president halted the wholesale delivery of supplies to the salvage firm, disclaimed any intent to place responsibility for this deal on the late president.

Much of her cargo, consisting of 31 barrels and over 150 cases of whiskey, was saved by federal prohibition agents, but some of it, however, was lost in the heavy sea that was running.

The master of the ship, who is said to have become bewildered and lost his course in the offshore fog, is under arrest along with five members of his crew of six and will be taken to Newbern. # HANDS OFF POLICY DECREED BY COURT IN WALTON CASE

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 8.—The federal government will not interfere in the impeachment of Governor J. C. Walton.

The "hands off" policy was decreed by Federal Judge John H. Cottrell, who denied the deposed governor's prayer for an injunction restraining the senatorial court from proceeding with the impeachment trial.

While the federal tribunal was hearing Walton's plea, the senate court of impeachment was receiving his counsel's formal answer to the allegations contained in the 20 articles of impeachment, and the house of representatives' principal investigating committee was absorbing evidence to the effect that last February Walton had actually taken the oath of the Ku Klux Klan. He is said to have taken the oath while in his office in the governor's suite at the state capitol.

Through his attorneys the deposed governor denied each of the charges. The answer embraced hundreds of typewritten sheets and at the conclusion of the reading of the answer to the fifth article the court decided to have the whole document printed.

In the federal court hearing at Lawton, Judge Cottrell refused to intervene because of lack of jurisdiction.

NEARLY 4 THOUSAND CAST BALLOTS IN XENIA ON TUESDAY

Three thousand, nine hundred and sixty-four voters in the Xenia City school district cast their votes for members of the City Board of Education at the election Tuesday. It has been computed by H. A. Higgins, of the Board of Elections. Of this number 3,865 votes were cast by citizens within the Xenia city limits and 90 were from Xenia Township territory that is within the boundaries of the school district. This number is considered official for the Xenia City vote as it is believed everybody voted for board of education members.

Figures compiled from the vote for members of the County Board of Education, which is believed to have drawn the biggest votes in the county on local issues, shows that about 4,130 votes were cast in the county outside Xenia.

KELLOG FIRST MAN FROM WEST APPOINTED AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN.

C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the President, has disclosed an interesting sidelight on Mr. Coolidge's working methods. When the President was considering the appointment of a successor to Colonel George Harvey to represent the United States at the Court of St. James, he asked Mr. Slemp to give him a list of former Ambassadors to Great Britain. This list, containing some of the most illustrious names in American history, disclosed that former Senator Frank Kellogg, who has just been named as the next Ambassador to Great Britain, will be the first man from the "wild and woolly West" to hold the post. Former Ambassador John W. Davis, of West Virginia, was from the "far" West compared with the other American Ambassadors to Britain.

In point of Ambassadors to the Court of St. James, New York leads the list with nine. Massachusetts and Pennsylvania are tied for second place with six each and Virginia and Maryland for third place with three each. New Jersey, to which Colonel Harvey is assigned, actually has only one Ambassador to Great Britain to its credit. Although Frederick T. Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, was appointed Ambassador to Great Britain by President Grant, he declined. The list also contains the names of four men who later became President—James Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Martin Van Buren and James Buchanan.

EUROPE NOT JUSTIFIED IN ASKING U. S. AID.

If European states need the help of America, for which they continually clamor, to stabilize their Governments financially and politically, why should we not demand as a condition that Americans be placed in control of such European Governments during the stabilizing process that a proper effect might be attained by orderly administration of American peace policies? It is neither charity nor wisdom for America to burden her own people with excessive taxes to waste on European Governments that do not show the mental attitude to use same to effectuate real peace.

With ibred racial hatred and jealousy, greed, war training and love of conquest, how could further American help to Europe succeed in its true purpose if placed in the hands and under the control of designing European politicians?

Let America adhere to its wise policy of the past to help stabilize only where we are placed in the position of controlling the policies of stabilization.

As a matter of fact, there is an immense amount of private wealth in Europe, and European statesmen are quite as intelligent as Americans.

When Europeans are morally and morally willing to settle their controversies in a spirit of justice and fraternity, it is probable that peace will reign in their midst and prosperity will return to them without the constant begging for America's help, which means in reality an alms for their purposes.

ANOTHER SUGGESTION FOR THE BOK WORLD PEACE PRIZE: PRESENT AMERICA'S NATIONAL ANTHEM TO THE NATIONS.

1903-- Twenty Years Ago--1923

A deal has been made by which the Bellbrook Inn, the well known summer resort, which is a favorite place for Xenians, has been sold by Mrs. J. H. Deffenbach to Mr. James Matthews of Cincinnati. It is the intention of new owner to convert the Inn into a sanitarium for the treatment of tuberculosis.

The much heralded Jesse James Company, arrived in Xenia over the C. H. and D. in its magnificent private car Saturday morning and packed the Opera house that night. The hunting season opened up today and the physicians and surgeons put in an extra supply of bandages.

Minced Ham on Toast: Put cooked, left-over ham through your food chopper, then measure it. To each cupful add the yolk of one hard-boiled egg mashed. Season the mixture with salt and pepper to taste, and also add a little butter. Turn all into a hot frying pan and let cook till hot through, stirring constantly. Then heap the hot hash on buttered slices of toast and serve at once.

Potato Cakes with Egg: Bake large potatoes till very tender, then peel and mash well. Measure, and to each cupful allow the yolks of one egg cooked till mealy and then mashed and mixed with one-half cup of sweet milk. Add salt to season, and form the mixture into small, flat cakes with the hands. Place these cakes on greased baking pans and brown for 15 minutes in a medium oven. Serve hot.

Lentil Soup: Wash one cupful (one-half pound) of lentils, then soak them overnight in cold water to cover well. In the morning drain and put them into a saucepan with six cups of water, bring to the boiling point, and skim well. Now add the following ingredients, three stalks of diced celery, one chopped onion, one chopped carrot, one chopped turnip, a small piece of bay leaf, one teaspoon of whole peppers, one stale crust of bread finely ground, one teaspoon of salt and a sprig or two of parsley.

Let this mixture simmer for one and one-half hours, then strain it through a wire-meshed sieve, rubbing through as much of the chopped vegetables as possible. Set this aside while you make the following mixture: Melt two tablespoons of butter in a large saucepan, rub into it one heaping tablespoon of flour, add one cup of milk and let simmer for four minutes, stirring constantly. Now add the soup to this thickening, and season to taste with salt and pepper.

When you serve it, put a little cream or rich top-milk into each individual soup plate, then pour the hot soup on top of it (using not more than one-half cup of the cream for each plate.) Note: In boiling the soup, before combining it with the thickening, it may be necessary to add a little hot water from time to time as the liquid evaporates. Keep it the consistency of top-milk.

Carrots a la Pompadour: Butter a baking dish and put in the bottom two cups of cooked, sliced carrots. Add a layer of two cups of cooked, sliced potatoes. Then pour over all the following sauce: Melt two heaping

START AFRESH

Every race is from scratch. That is, from an equal footing. The loser must take his chance for success another time. But in time that loser will be the winner.

For it is the good sport who smiles and says he will take that other chance, until he wins. Each day, we start another race, another game, another life. But even with this assurance, many of us carry over the records of our former defeats and discouragements into the new day.

What a world of men and women this would be if we could all start each day!

It isn't an easy thing to obliterate the paths of our thoughts, the scars of our mistakes and blunders but it is entirely possible for us to keep them as reminders to walk straight and keep our eyes open, face front, look ahead and start afresh as though life had just been unfolded anew for us.

Keep starting afresh. Over and over again start afresh. And some day life will take upon itself freshness and beauty and strength. And everything you do will reflect the occasions of your re-birth.

We are too much troubled about the little ailments and pains of our daily life. We think of them as some kind of necessary beings with which we must consort in greater or less degree. But, as a matter of fact, we should pass them by, put freshness into our imagination and will our bodily servants to clean house—to start afresh.

It is never too late to mend, to start afresh.

Styles BY LENORE

The new neckline is a variable feature. There is no longer one prescribed line, like the bateau neck.

This season the neckline may depend upon your own taste or that of your dressmaker.

An always becoming neckline is the "V" shape, and the low-cut oval is another. Both are frequently seen in evening dresses, which by the way are a little more elaborate this year than they have been in recent seasons.

Corded draping, with a graceful cascading drape from the hip and a silver garniture, give richness to a gown of sapphire blue velvet, adapted from a Molyneux model. When this gown goes out in the evening, it may wear the rose velvet wrap also shown in the sketch. It is collared with Kolinsky.

The seats will be reserved Thursday for the entire season, it is announced. There will also be a number of single admission tickets available Friday evening at the door, which will be sold $1 each.

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

THE PASSING OF BEAUTY
Trees are turning red and gold,
Now the year is growing old,
But the leaves are fluttering down
To the gutters of the town;
And the beauty of it all
Tells us plainly it is fall,
It is fall and summer's gone,
Winter's swiftly coming on.

Roses pink and roses white
Make a very lovely sight,
But I cannot stay the year,
When I see them on a bier,
Tinged with sadness every bloom
Lighting up the silent room,
For the petals, one by one,
Whisper this: Your friend has gone.

Well I know that summer's dead;
Woods of beauty, hills aglow,
Liveried heralds of the snow,

Still beyond your calm I hear
Winds of winter howling near.

"DON'T GET UP NIGHTS ANYMORE"

No one need suffer the pain and annoyance of bladder trouble getting up many times each night. C. F. Melcher, Vevay, Ind., manufacturer, says: "Before I took Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) I had to get up two to four times every hour at night and was bothered nearly as much in daytime. It got so bad I could not go any place to visit or work, for I had no control of my bladder. I am all right now and have no trouble at all." Sufferers from bladder trouble will be surprised at the impurities passed after a few doses of Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula). It acts on the kidneys and bladder similarly as do Epsom Salts on the bowels. Try a few doses for frequent desire at night, scalding, scanty or high-colored urine. Lithiated Buchu tablets (Keller formula) is not a cheap medicine. They cost 25¢ each and contain several drugs which are useful for relief of this trouble. At drug stores everywhere, or write The Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, O. They are for sale in this city by Sayre and Hemphill.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale.

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MR. BUTTERFLY'S JOURNEY

Mr. Monarch Butterfly gazed up at the smiling, happy face of Mr. Sun. Then he looked down at the milkweed plant upon which he was perched.

"I'll have to leave you," he said to the milkweed plant, "but you will come along, too," he added, as once more he looked at Mr. Sun.

Mr. Sun blinked as much as to say that that was right.

What a life his had been, the Monarch thought to himself. Did people ever realize what a thrilling, exciting, sweet life a butterfly could have? He went back in his little butterfly mind over the summer.

He hadn't remembered when he had been but a little egg on one of these milkweed plants. Nor did he remember when he had hatched out into a tiny black and white caterpillar. But he had been told that he had been a dear little baby caterpillar, and then life had begun in earnest for him.

My! He shivered as he thought of it now—that day when he had been almost trampled upon three times! What a day that had been.

Then he had changed into a beautiful Chrysalis, wearing a gorgeous green suit with gold decorations. And ever since he had left off that suit for his present one he had decided he would not change again.

"If I did," he said to himself, "it would upset all the Rules of Butterfly Air." He spoke of it as Butterfly Air instead of Butterfly Land, as he spent so much time in the air.

"Besides," he had decided, "everyone knows me as I am now. At least I hope they know the Monarch! I hope when they see a handsome butterfly of brown with smart black lines and white-spotted black wing edges and head decorations that it is a Monarch they are beholding."

"But if they don't know that, I'd like to tell them a secret. We're always in the neighborhood of the milkweed plants from the time we're babies until we're quite grown-up. And if I could put up Butterfly signs to direct people to our homes I'd print on the signs:

"To the Milkweed Plants in the Country—Homes of the Famous Monarch Butterflies."

Lately he had been very glad that butterflies could not put up signs telling people where their homes were, for he had had several narrow escapes from butterfly nets.

"And now I'm going on my journey," he said, "but before I go I shall pay a farewell call on my old friend Sir Clouded Sulphur Butterfly."

The Monarch left the milkweed plant and took one last look about him.

"I haven't left anything behind," he said, "because I never take anything with me. I don't need a tooth-brush and I don't need a wash-rag. All I need is myself."

"And that I always have." Perhaps I should not speak of myself in such a fashion, but when a butterfly is about to take a great long journey he cannot think of such little trifles.

"Ah, what a time I'll have. And Mr. Sun will go with me. For Mr. Sun and I are the best of friends."

"But of course I must say a good-by to Sir Clouded Sulphur Butterfly. That I must do, and then I will be all ready to start."

"Heigh-ho," he said.

"I do believe," he added after a moment, "that I will sing a song about Mr. Sun."

"Oh," said Mr. Sun, "I will be honored if you sing a song about me. I will be truly flattered and pleased."

"You deserve all the flattery and pleasure you get," smiled the Monarch.

"I will begin my song at once, before I pay my call."

"Do," said Mr. Sun.

This was the Monarch's song:

"The Sun is high and mighty, And yet he's not a snob; For he doesn't turn his face aside, But will smile at any old mob."

"Oh, that is a fine song," said Mr. Sun after the Monarch had finished. "I am truly delighted."

"You deserve it, you deserve it," said the Monarch, as he started off for the last call he was to make before he took his journey south for the winter months.

"Thank you, thank you," called Mr. Sun after him. "I cannot begin to tell you how pleased I am. But perhaps I'll be able to show you in my sunny fashion."

YOUNG GIRLHOOD IS WRITTEN IN PRETTY JUNIOR HATS

ONE is apt to run across a youngish grandmother trying on hats designed for the debutante these days, for junior styles in millinery follow the modes for grownups to some degree. This is more apparent in materials than in trimmings, and in the small, close-fitting shapes the difference in styles, for different ages, seems sometimes to be only a difference in head size.

In the group of young girls' hats shown here, velvet, embroideries, sectional crowns and shapes all have their prototypes in the autumn styles for grown people. But these styles are skillfully modified to make this dressy headwear for juniors in keeping with their years. A velvet picture hat at the top is faced with taffeta and edged with a taffeta-lined frill in a bright color. It adopts a sash of wide, soft ribbon for trimming and might be worn by girls from thirteen to seventeen at least.

The last hat in the group, of velvet with upturned brim, has a youthful crown in which an embroidered disk supplies the center, with the scant side crown shirred and joined to it. Shirred velvet covers the brim, but the shirring is simple and not full. A flat flower made of velvet, having its petals indicated in the same way, and velvet leaves.

FIFTY FOUR GIVEN EXAMINATIONS AT CLINIC IN XENIA

Fifty-four patients were examined at the two-day tuberculosis clinic conducted by the State Department of Health, at the Court House, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Of the twenty-six cases examined Tuesday, four were found positive for tuberculosis, six were suspected cases and sixteen negative. The chest diagnosticians examined 29 cases Wednesday, and found of that number three positive cases of the disease, five suspected and 21 negative.

Of the twenty-six cases examined at the tuberculosis clinic by physicians of the State Department of Health, at the Court House Tuesday, four were found positive for cases and sixteen negative.

Twenty-five cases were examined by the diagnosticians at the clinic, Wednesday, Dr. W. C. Breidenbach, superintendent of the Stillwater Sanitarium, at Dayton, and Dr. C. F. Anderson, superintendent of the Mount Vernon Sanitarium, were the chief diagnosticians, assisted by Miss Anna M. Doyle of the State Department of Health and city nurses. Members of the Greene County Medical Society witnessed clinic Tuesday, and brought their patients from all over the county for examination.

Dr. J. A. Frank, Chief of the Bureau of Tuberculosis, of the State Department of Health, outlined the program of the clinics as they have been held throughout the state, before the members of the Greene County Medical Society, at the Court House, Tuesday night. He emphasized the value of a regular physical examination.

Dr. W. C. Breidenbach also addressed the medical society, showing a series of slides in which Pneumothorax was used. He also spoke on the diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis.

If those afflicted with the disease can be kept under the supervision of a family physician and the necessary aid given to them as a whole, further development may be avoided, according to physicians. In some cases sanatorium treatment may be necessary.

Miss Anna M. Doyle, of the State Department of Health, who made arrangements for the clinic, assisted by local charitable organizations and physicians, will leave Friday for Columbus.

Assisting in the work of the clinic were three High School pupils, the Misses Helen Fisher, Dorothy Hickman, and Thelma Koutzong, who made out the report of the physicians.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied! You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

PETER W. COLLINS WILL SPEAK UNDER AUSPICES OF K. OF C.

The 1922-23 Knights of Columbus campaign against extreme radicalism and for constructive thought and service will be brought home to the citizens of Xenia and Greene County when Peter W. Collins, well-known industrial expert and lecturer on sociological and economic subjects will deliver his address "What America Means to Us," in the Jean B. Elwell Auditorium of the new Central High School building next Monday under the auspices of Xenia Council, No. 1801, Knights of Columbus.

Mr. Collins is acknowledged to be one of the best equipped authorities on industrial problems. He has for over 25 years given his best effort for harmonious and right relations between labor and capital. Serving as industrial expert with the Federal Government during the war and as an active labor executive for many years before the war, he came in contact with every phase of the sociological-economic problems. He holds the distinction of being the first and only expert on Socialism, Bolshevism and I. W. Wism to be called before any legislative or judicial tribunal and acted as such in the famous New York investigation testifying for three full days.

As director general of K. of C. reconstruction and employment work after the war, Mr. Collins had charge of the functioning of the K. of C. system that placed 300,000 former service men back in civilian employment without a cent of cost to either employer or employees—constituting what Secretary of Labor James J. Davis characterizes as the most amazing feat in the history of modern employment management.

Mr. Collins' lecture will be under the auspices of Xenia Council, which has issued a general invitation to the public to hear him.

Wonderful Results from Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable
Compound

Beloit, Wis.—"My female trouble was brought on by overwork. I had worked in stores and had to do heavier work than my strength could stand, and had to be on my feet most of the time. Finally I had to give up this work entirely and stay at home. Doctor's medicine did not give me much relief, and my mother wanted me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took a couple of bottles of it and thought it did not help me as much as it should, so I gave it up to try something else. Nothing I took helped me much, so I finally decided to give the Vegetable Compound another trial and to take enough of it to make sure it would help me. I have taken it over a year now and it has brought wonderful results. I have gained from 98 to 110 pounds and am keeping house now. My friends all notice the change in my health. I will be glad to answer all letters that women write to me about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. W. G. MONSON, 1515 Park Ave., Beloit, Wis.

RIDDLE RESIGNS MIDDLETOWN JOB

Kenyon Riddle, city manager of Middletown, and Xenia's first city manager, resigned as manager of Middletown Wednesday, effective December 15.

Riddle will associate himself with his twin brother, Karl Riddle, city manager of West Palm Beach, Fla., in conducting an engineering and contracting company in Florida and in the colonization of a 100,000 acre tract.

Riddle came here as Xenia's first city manager January 1, 1918, from Kansas, where he had been active in the promotion of the commission-manager plan of municipal government. He was a charter member of the City Manager's Association and considered an authority on the operation of that type of government as a pioneer in the field.

Riddle was here until March, 1921 when he resigned to become city manager of Middletown, a position he has since held. He said a telegram offering the position in Florida was received several days ago but that he withheld knowledge of his intended resignation until after the election.

NO PROFIT UNTIL LAST BOX IS SOLD

PROFIT
SELLING EXPENSE
COST OF COMMODITY

QUICK TURNOVER AND PROFIT DEPEND ON PRICE

The last box of goods is the merchant's profit. Speed of turnover is therefore very important.

Consider the problem of the dealer in hosiery. Assume that he buys a dozen boxes of hosiery at $10 a box, to sell at $15, with a selling expense of $45 for the lot.

As is shown in the illustration, he will have to sell eight boxes to get his original $120, which he paid for the hosiery. He has to sell three more to make his expenses of $45. The last box will give him a profit of $15 on the deal. However, he has to sell this last box before he makes anything.

Consequently, he is interested in moving the goods quickly, in other words he wants a quick turnover. If it takes a long time to sell that last box, perhaps it would be more profitable to sell the whole bunch at $14 a box, and they only make a profit of $3.

It would certainly be more profitable to make six $3 profits in the same time that it would take to make one $15 profit. This means the merchant must take the speed with which a product will sell into consideration when making prices.

MINSTREL SHOW IS GIVEN BY KIWANIS

Rival golf teams of the Xenia Kiwanis Club met again at the regular meeting of the Club at the Elks' Lodge Wednesday evening, in what was probably the windup of the golf season, so far as club contests are concerned.

Members of the team captained by T. H. Zell were entertained with a minstrel show, staged by members of the opposing team, in which Elbert L. Babb and James D. Adair, blackface artists, assumed roles of end men, with D. S. Tallafiero as interlocutor. An orchestra composed of R. E. Dunkel, E. S. Davidson, S. M. McKay, T. C. Long, C. A. Bone and J. M. Davidson, entertained the club with two selections early in the program, and was supplemented later by a saxophone solo by E. S. Davidson, accompanied at the piano by R. E. Dunkel.

Dr. A. M. Patterson read what purported to be a letter from a member of the club to a friend in which he described humorously the two golf contests held by the Kiwanis teams. Parodies on popular songs aimed at individuals of the club were sung by several of the entertainers.

"The sweetest story ever told"

THE sweetest story ever told music lovers is the story of the Brunswick Method of Reproduction. For it is the story of true music.

The method of reproduction

The Brunswick Method of Reproduction is the right application of fundamental musical and acoustical laws. It consists of two simple, yet exclusive, Brunswick features now widely known—the Ultona and the Tone Amplifier. Together they operate as a unit.

The ULTONA—a scientific Brunswick creation—simple in structure and it plays all records infinitely better.

With but a slight turn of the hand it presents the proper needle and diaphragm to any make record.

Brunswick

PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS

The TONE AMPLIFIER solves an old problem in acoustics. It is oval in shape and moulded of rare hollyhock. Like the sounding board of a fine piano it is built entirely of wood. It is absolutely free from metal.

By this method of projecting sound, tone waves are unrestricted and allowed to unfold into full rounded tones that are rich, mellow and, above all, natural.

You buy only one phonograph and you cannot afford to make a mistake. It costs you nothing to be sure. Come in and find out for yourself.

BURGER'S PETS BEING PRIMED FOR GREENFIELD HIGH

Coach "Puss" Burger is pointing his Central High football team for the contest with Greenfield McClain High at Greenfield Friday afternoon.

Greenfield and Xenia both fell out of the same boat this year, both losing crack grid combinations through the operation of graduation. Neither has been successful this fall, although McClain boasts of one victory in the South Central Ohio League besides a tie contest and three defeats.

Fans here believe if the blue and white performers pastime in the noble fashion they did against Springfield, that they can beat Greenfield. Players themselves believe that the travel jinx has had a lot to do with the failure of the team on foreign fields this season. They say the team does not show the fight and dash away from home that characterizes battles in their own ballpark.

Bugs believe the combination used against Greenville last week was the cream of arrangements, and the same combination will probably be bent against the hill top crowd Friday.

Grid-Dust

By Ray Higgins

Considerable interest is being manifested in these parts in the outcome of the Wilmington-Steele football game at Dayton Saturday afternoon.

Steele has managed to set up a halo of perfect football around itself by bringing football teams several thousand miles to Dayton and defeating them. Bugs want to see what the Steele eleven can do against a real, dyed-in-the-world southern Ohio old-fashioned football team.

Unfortunately Wilmington High and Wilmington followers are certain the Quakers will whip Steele Saturday. The team that defeats Steele will have to have confidence in the Clinton County seat, indicate that the team is assuming a "cocky" attitude. Unless this attitude is unloaded before Saturday Steele is going to have an easier time than it really should have.

Steele High has a good football team and one that plays almost perfect football. Fumbles and misplays are infrequent on the Bevan coached athletes. There is a big reserve squad to replace past-timers who did not follow instructions. If they beat Wilmington, which is likely, they will do it by out-smarting Coach Black's boys.

Steele always has a bag of tricks up its collective sleeve. If Wilmington's heavy line plays real football, the Dayton team will not be able to gain on straight football. But Steele will use trick formations that will throw the heavy Wilmington forward wall into disorder.

Wilmington will out-weight Steele from 15 to 20 pounds to the man, but Steele is drilled in the end-running and passing game to defeat heavy teams. Pine Bluff, Arkansas, also boasted a heavy line and smart grid club. Steele won that game handily by playing more perfect football, holding to the ball and taking advantage of every opportunity. In our opinion Wilmington, in spite of the possession of much latent talent, cannot win from Steele at least on the Steele grid-iron.

Activity is the law of life, and this is no less true in age than in youth, though there are some modifications to be made in the manner of exercise. Just as soon as one settles down to "be old," or in other words, to stagnate mentally or physically, just so soon do his powers atrophy and decline and it does not matter whether the process starts in at the age of forty or eighty. The only way to retain youth up to the last is to maintain the healthful conditions and activities of youth.

We should remember that old age is a matter of physical condition rather than of years.

Speaking briefly, age means a loss of elasticity, especially in the cartilages and in the walls of the blood vessels. A great deal is said about the hardening of the arteries, but this is a matter affecting the health and nutrition of the body. Since we know that circulation depends upon this elasticity of the blood vessels, next to the essential pumping of the heart, the importance of keeping the arteries in good condition, and for the sake of this, the general health, will be obvious.

Nearly all ordinary exercises suitable for all-around development can be practiced with benefit by those who are passing through their advanced years, except that in some cases they would better be performed more slowly.

Owing to the gradual loss of elasticity in the arteries, it is not wise for those who are very old to attempt violent or very rapid exercises. As a rule, those which call for less speed or activity but more endurance are well suited. The requirements of children are just the opposite, for they can profit by lively games with only moderate demands upon their endurance. There are many cases in which old men have shown themselves capable of better endurance records in old age than in youth, outside of the more strenuous pastimes.

Walking is an ideal exercise for the old. The man of middle age may find himself rather awkward and stiff, but if he will take up faithful and persistent physical training he will find that all of this will disappear in a few months and he will again enjoy the activity and strength of his early manhood.

Cedarville College Notes

Mr. W. W. Galloway, general manager of the Hagar Strawboard and Paper Company presented to the Y. M. C. A. of Cedarville College an interesting talk upon How to Get the Best out of Life. Mr. Galloway is a well known and prominent figure in and around Cedarville.

On October 30, the Reverend Mr. Leis of Fairfield addressed the student body on "Responsibilities." Mr. Leis emphasized the fact that we have certain responsibilities to ourselves, to our fellow men, and to our God; and that each opportunity brings with it a responsibility. Each person is given a talent; consequently he is urged that we use those talents profitably.

Miss Halsey, student secretary of the Y. W. C. A., spoke to the girls on Wednesday October 31. Miss Halsey told us of the girls who belong to the association with us and very interestingly explained a portion of the work of the Y. W. C. A.
